To achieve this, the College will always strive to ensure:

- All students achieve success in their chosen pathways.
- The existence of mutual respect within the College.
- The development of a reflective learning community committed to continuously improve student outcomes.
- That student's develop independence, resilience and social responsibility.
- At Mildura Senior College we value;
Respect, Responsibility, Resilience, Independence and Success
- Mildura Senior College is a unique setting providing an outstanding opportunity for young adults to access extensive pathways within a young adult learning environment.

Entrance to Year 11 is open to all students living in the Sunraysia District who have successfully completed Year 10. The decision regarding the satisfactory completion of Year 10 is the responsibility of the enrolling student's previous school. Enrolment at the College is also dependent on factors such as age, behaviour record and other achievements. Please see the section on enrolment for further information.

At Mildura Senior College the academic / vocational focus of the school and the absence of younger students (most students are 16 to 18 years) means that school organisation can be approached in ways which may not otherwise be possible. As a result the College environment reflects a transition from the more closely controlled environment of the junior years to the more self-disciplined environment of the adult world of work or study. This is a learning environment for young adults, which provides support combined with opportunities to exercise growing independence and self-discipline.

Not only are we committed to providing successful academic and vocational pathways for all senior students but also the associated programs of the performing arts, sport and other extra-curricular activities are consistently outstanding.

Educating young adults for a productive and rewarding future is a three way responsibility shared by parents, students and the College. With all three parties contributing and co-operating, success in regard to this goal will be maximised and we look forward to playing our part in ensuring every student has every opportunity for success.

Please call on the administration and staff at Mildura Senior College if you have any questions, and again, we welcome you to our vibrant learning community.
